Company history
How it started

Founded by Jonny, Jason and Steve, three fathers with backgrounds as creative directors and an appetite for doing things a little differently. It all began with a birthday present. And some newspapers.

When his son Saul was born Steve had a plan. He went straight out and bought copies of the day's papers. He's going to give them to Saul when he turns 21 as a little window on the world he was born into. Nice huh.

This got Jonny, Jason and Steve thinking. In a time when celebrities are famous just for being famous and when every single thing is a photo filtered, hashtagged demonstration of "Brand Me" how do we celebrate the moments and the memories that really count? Isn't it important to make the effort to celebrate the things that really make the people around you amazing? And wouldn't it be great if there was a way for absolutely anyone to be able to create someone special a keepsake as unique they are? Make them feel loved and help the world feel a little more human along the way.

So, they put the kettle to boil, put their thinking caps on, and set to work building a terribly clever, brilliantly simple to use personalisation platform that, using just a name and a date of birth, can instantly create a book about anyone, stuffed full with cool curiosities, fascinating facts, delightful design.

Since then, their gift range has expanded into personalised maps, cards and videos, ensuring all gifting occasions and loved ones are covered.

Taking kung fu personally

The Book Of Everyone is a company with lofty ambitions. They don't just want to produce the best personalised gifts you've ever seen. They want to be kung fu masters of personalisation.

That doesn't mean they want to appear on TV chopping through piles of books with their bare hands (though that would be pretty impressive obviously). The original Chinese meaning of "kung fu" refers to a discipline or skill achieved through hard work, learning, practice and dedication.

And that's exactly what The Book Of Everyone is all about.
Who makes The Book of Everyone?

You don’t have to be a computer whiz, an artistic genius, or be a pub quiz champion with an encyclopedic knowledge of facts and trivia. All you have to be is someone who wants to put a little effort into celebrating someone in your life.

The Book Of Everyone has a team of super talented developers, artists, and writers to take care of everything else. It’s a daily labour of love and, like any kung fu masters worth their salt, they are always finding ways to get even better at making personalisation more personal.

Achieving kung fu mastery

It’s this kung fu inspired dedication that sees The Book Of Everyone always trying to go above and beyond to make sure that every atom of effort from their customers is rewarded with more than a little joy. It’s why the three founders wore pregnancy suits for a month for the launch of a special edition for mums. It’s why they’ve partnered with organisations including Well Child, Battersea Cat & Dog Home and Autism Anglia and added their kung fu approach to supporting charity. It’s why they honored Lydia the lollipop lady with her own bronze statue in their Humble Hero campaign when they launched The Video of Everyone. It’s why they created a digital ant farm soap opera that plays host to the virtual ants that are named after every single book recipient. And it’s what drove them to write over 2000 postcards by hand over the summer of 2018 thanking their customers for choosing them.

Those personal touches go mean everything in relationships, and they mean everything to The Book of Everyone.

The Book Of Everyone want to make the world a bit more wonderful. And absolutely everyone’s invited.

There are already 650,000 people out there who have a personalised map, book or video that celebrates them. And the team behind The Book Of Everyone are just getting started.
A few facts about The Book of Everyone
The Book Of Everyone was born in London on January 20th 2014. That date was no accident. It was deliberately chosen because it’s statistically, “the most depressing day of the year”. We love a challenge, so what better day could there be to start bringing big fat dollops of wonderful into the world.

So far we’ve:

- Helped celebrate amazing people with 650,000 personalised gifts in 175 countries.
- Created 250,000 design and copy assets to help people make books that are both beautiful and fascinating.
- Created a community of 100,000 followers on Facebook and over 20,000 on Instagram.
- Built an excellent relationship with our customers rated 4.8 out of 5 on Facebook and trust score 9.7 out of 10 on Trustpilot.

And according to the terribly clever algorithm that fills our books with fascinating facts and cool curiosities:

- We’ve smiled at least 596,400 times in the office (but you can probably add another 10,000 for all the summer BBQs).
- And we share roughly 50% of our DNA with a banana. Excellent.
